Attachment to Japan's vote FDIS 10646-2

1. CJK ideograph extension-B code table: (technical)
Replace the code table with the table authorized by IRG. Many printed shapes of CJK ideograph in extension-B are inadequate. They have not been confirmed by IRG yet.
2. Introduction: (editorial)
Replace ISO/IEC 10464 with IOS/IEC 10646.
3. scope: (editorial)
Delete the note because this is not necessary in international standards.
4. clause 6: (editorial)
Delete notes for proposed subdivision, and old italics, those are not necessary.
5. clause 7.2: (editorial)
Replace JIS X 213 with JIS X 0213.
Delete last 3 lines in the first paragraph (source information) as they are in clause 7.3.
6. Annex C and E: (clarification)
Those annex includes an access for separated table. Is this accepted style by ITTF or ISO/IEC JTC1 directives?
7. PDF discriminator: (clarification)
Code tables shall not have freedom of font selection. The printed shape of the characters on the code table is normative.

Canada supports this document however, we do have the following editorial comments. Because we are unable to vote electronically with comments I am forwarding these to you. Should I be sending them to someone else?

Best regards....Roz

Editorial Comments:

Comment 1:
Note on Page 1 under Clause 1:
Suggest changing from:

"The Unicode .. Version 3.1 provides a set of characters ... representations that are identical ..."
to
"The Unicode .. Version 3.1 includes a set of characters ... .. representations for Planes 01, 02 and 0E, that are identical ..."

This will remove the potential mis-interpretation of the note to mean that Unicode 3.1 contains the characters from 10646-2 ONLY (and not 10646-1).

Comment 2:
