Mahjong is still a very popular game in Taiwan. Most adult people in Taiwan have experience of playing Mahjong on Chinese New-year vacation. With the developing of computer technology and Internet, there were two new types of Mahjong appeared. The first one is a computer game for which a person playing Mahjong with PC. The second one is an online game for which 4 people playing by means of Internet.

Invention of Mahjong

The true origin of Mahjong is still a mystery and many legends relating to its development are made up to attract potential customers and players. Mahjong which commonly known as “Sparrow” is said to be originated from Ningpo in Chunchu and Warring Period (B.C. 770 -221) of China. Originally, characters and icons were engraved onto the wooden tiles, yet products in various fashions are now available and there are paper cards convenient for outdoor use. It is also said that Mahjong has been played on Noah’s Ark; if so, the game then has a history of more than four thousand years. Nowadays, it is generally believed to start since mid of 19th century because there is no evidence related to it. However, the precise time of its birth is still unknown.

Although the game of card stacking was seen in China since AD 1120, Mahjong is more similar to many ancient card games. One of the games is called “Mahdiao” (“horse-hoisting” literally), which has 40 cards in total and divided into 4 doors; each door has numbers from 1 to 9 together with remaining 4 cards as flowers. The most popular statement is that Mahjong was transformed from this game in Ningpo around AD 1850, where two brothers engraved the card surface onto small tiles made with ivory and bamboos for invention of Mahjong.

Spread of Mahjong

Mahjong spread over the world very quickly: it spread to Japan in 1907 and to USA after 1920. Since there are no formal rules and people playing Mahjong increased, the way to play it also has many changes. Two major changes were made in Japanese rules of Mahjong: firstly, there was no more scoring according to type of tile arrangement and it was replaced by “hu” competition; secondly, the second winning player had no more score and only the player obtained “hu” may receive money from other 3 players.

When Mahjong was introduced to USA, the introducer simplified the rules and got rid of many details. The game became popular very fast, but many people still thought that the game needed improvement; thus some new rules and special hands of “hu” were added. The new addition created large confusions in USA and for this, the National Mahjong Union published the official American rules. During the period, there are many new changes on Mahjong and everyone looked it as a whole new game.

Type of Mahjong

Mahjong started in mainland China and became popular in Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan and various places in Europe and USA. It can be divided into two types: (1) 16-tile Mahjong: this is also known as Taiwanese Mahjong, which has 144 tiles inclusive of 8 flower tiles; (2) 13-tile Mahjong: this has 8 flower tiles less than the Taiwanese Mahjong and comes to a total of 136 tiles. Except for Taiwan, the 13-tile Mahjong is most popular in mainland China, Hong Kong, Japan, Europe and USA.

Classification of Mahjong Tiles

Mahjong has total of 144 tiles divided into 7 categories: thousands (4 sets each having 9 titles), bars (4 sets each having 9 titles), pies (4 sets each having 9 titles), dasanyuan (4 sets each having 3 titles), winds (4 sets each having 4 titles), seasons (4 titles) and flowers (4 titles).
