Introduction

With a history of several thousand years of human consumption and use, garlic is native to Central Asia and northeastern Iran, and has long been a common seasoning worldwide. It was known to Ancient Egyptians, and has been used both as a food flavoring and as a traditional medicine.⁰ People have used it as a protective charm against a wide variety of eventualities, biological and otherwise. Garlic was used as a field antibiotic in World War I. The original athletes in the Olympic games chewed on cloves of garlic before competing.

Garlic is known worldwide by its unique odor and flavor. It is sometimes called the stinking rose even though it is a member of the lily family.

It is high in fructans, allyl methyl sulfide, vitamin B₆, and deliciousness. It has antimicrobial, anti-yeast, and antifungal properties. It inhibits the synthesis of fats and the growth of intestinal parasites. It repels many insects but attracts leeches.

There are restaurants, competitions and festivals, websites, books, and songs dedicated to garlic. It is featured in writings from past millennia. It has been claimed that garlic juice can reduce the power of magnets.

Garlic has been featured in classic literature, including works by Bram Stoker, Shakespeare, Cervantes, Dumas, Percy Bysshe Shelley, Dr. Seuss, T.S. Eliot, Pablo Neruda, and Rudyard Kipling.

“Stop and smell the garlic! That’s all you have to do.” — William Shatner.

Names

CLDR short name: garlic

CLDR keywords: garlic, food, allium

Selection Factors Inclusion

Compatibility

While there have been many requests for a GARLIC emoji, most popular messaging services have not included a GARLIC emoji yet. This proposal seeks to rectify that.

Expected Usage Level

Frequency

We expect use of the GARLIC emoji to be high globally, as garlic is found in cuisines throughout the world, said to have myriad health benefits, and has significance in many aspects of culture.

Multiple Usages

The GARLIC emoji would be used heavily by food-eaters, chefs, and vampire enthusiasts. It could be used in combination with other emoji to express a variety of prepared dishes.

In computer networking, garlic routing is a variant of onion routing that encrypts multiple messages together to make it more difficult for attackers to perform traffic analysis and to increase the speed of data transfer.²

Image Distinctiveness

Garlic bulbs, cloves, and even slices of a garlic clove are instantly recognizable.

Completeness

Garlic represents a major category of culinary and cultural experience which is not represented in the current emoji list. We feel fruit are overrepresented in emoji, while allium are all but absent.

Frequently Requested

Twitter is full of people with various levels of outrage at the lack of garlic emoji, and no shortage of tweets with the hashtag #garlicemoji.

Google Trends (Web Search) indicates a level of interest in “garlic” consistently greater than that of “chestnut”, which is often used in garlic’s stead as an emoji.

Selection Factors Exclusion

Overly Specific

While there are many delicious members of the Allium genus, none are currently represented in emoji, and were any others to exist, neither the onion nor the shallot nor the leek nor the scallion nor the chive nor the inimitable ramp would be an adequate stand-in for the glorious garlic.

Open Ended

If garlic should open the floodgates to other edible plant bulbs, there are not that many, so the universe is limited. Also, GARLIC can probably wok as a standin.

Already Representable

Given that people are using the text "garlic emoji" and the emoji CHESTNUT paired with an explanation that it is meant to be garlic and not a chestnut, it seems that there is no good way of representing garlic in lieu of an actual GARLICcodepoint.

Transient

Garlic has existed for thousands of years. It is the subject of countless recurring festivals. It shows no outward signs of growing weary of this attention.

Logos, brands, UI icons, signage, specific people, deities

Garlic is featured in many logos, brands, and trademarks. Several types of garlic enjoy Protected Geographical Status in Europe. However, it would be absurd for garlic itself to be the victim of intellectual property restrictions.
