1 Introduction

A set of fonts for Proto-Cuneiform were developed for SEI by Jérémie Hornus at Black Foundry:

- ProtoCuneiform Ideographic Beta-Regular.ttf
- ProtoCuneiform Numerical Beta-Regular.ttf

The fonts were generated from the CDLI sign images. On the whole, the production is quite good. However, the fonts needed to be modified as the arrangement of glyphs did not follow the CDLI sign list. Also, the glyphs did not have identifiers, which made it difficult to locate a sign without external references.

The CDLI sign images for Proto-Cuneiform have a major idiosyncrasy: variant forms of a sign are contained within a single image instead of as separate images. The variant forms are stacked vertically in the image, and placed horizontally in the case of one sign. As the glyphs are derived from these images, the font also possesses this idiosyncrasy.

I have compared the original CDLI sign image with its corresponding glyph. For each glyph that has variant forms, I have listed the number of variants. I have also provided a comment for glyphs whose appearance differs from the original image. The comparison is shown in the table below. Each sign has been assigned a serial number for ease of reference. The numeric signs are ordered first (#1–#380), followed by the ideographic signs (#381–#1636).

I have merged the two fonts that were delivered, reordered the glyphs according to the CDLI sign list, and added glyph names. As part of developing the formal proposal for Proto-Cuneiform, I will segment variant forms into separate glyphs. This will facilitate the display and discussion of these variants.
