Title: Radical-Strokes charts for all UCS
encoded Ideographs + Extension-E

Status: Proposal for discussion

Requested Action: For reference.

Background:

As the number of encoded CJK Unified ideographs increases, provision of comprehensive radical-strokes charts to identify encoded ideographs has become more important. This document proposes new Radical-Strokes chart for CJK Unified Ideographs, that has the following characteristics.

1. Supplying multiple radical-strokes pairs to single CJK Unified ideographs.

For example, traditionally, the radical of character “聞” is “耳” and its number of strokes is 8. This is sometimes confusing, as some people may attempt to search this character with “門” radical with the strokes number of 6. Also, some people may count the stroke number of “之” to be 3, even though its traditional stroke number is 4. This chart attempts to provide multiple radical-strokes pairs for such characters, enabling its user to find appropriate character more easily. This chart provides 118,000 radical-stroke entries for 80,000 characters, including all encoded UCS characters and Extension-E glyphs.

2. Characters are ordered for its structural and shape similarity.

A new method is developed to evaluate the similarity of characters, and characters within the same radical-strokes are aligned accordingly. This method let similar characters be laid out in proximity, enabling user to find the desired character more easily even if many number of characters exist for the same radical-strokes pair.

It should be noted that if new characters are proposed, such character can easily be embedded with this charts, enabling to identify duplicate character more easily. That would be crucial when finding duplicate characters for forthcoming Extension-F project.

Usage:

The chart is provided as zipped file (rad-str.zip). Please unzip it and open 'index.html' to view the chart. You may need to install Hanazono Mincho font (<http://fonts.jp/hanazono/>) and use “Firefox” web browser to view the charts properly.

Example of the chart is provided (radical 140) as PDF file.

The pdf version of the charts can be downloaded from:
